Coupland said it was the personnel of Hill AFB that made the achievement possible.

"It is to their everlasting credit that their participation in the Savings Bond Program has been so generous and wholehearted," he said.

"This splendid participation is another positive indication of the high morale that exists among our workforce. Morale is important in any kind of endeavor. The excellent response of all our people, not only in the Savings Bond Program, but in every national or local appeal that comes along, has always been outstanding and is a stirring example of their high morale and deep sense of civic responsibility."

The flag then was run up the flagpole in front of Ogden AMA's headquarters building. There it will fly beneath the U.S. flag.

Attending the ceremonies were local business and civic leaders, including Ogden, Salt Lake City, Clearfield, Layton and Roy Chamber of Commerce officials, banking executives, Frederick Champ, United States bond chairman, and Clem Schramm, state director for the savings bond program.

Each star on the T-Flag represents a year that Hill AFB civilian personnel have exceeded the 90 percent participation mark in the bond program.

Chapel Personnel Direct Hospital Equipment to India

Some 15 pieces of excess equipment from the Dee Hospital in Ogden are on their way to a World Vision Mission Hospital in northern India thanks to an assist from the men of the Base Chapel.

The donated equipment included an infant resuscitator, sterilizer, portable oxygen tent and other items needed by the interdenominational hospital.

Officials at the Dee Hospital had the items available but no means of transporting them to India. That is when the men of the Base Chapel stepped in.

They went to the hospital, loaded the equipment into a truck, brought the items back to the base, packed them, and then delivered them to the 945th Troop Carrier Group (Reserve). One of the group's C-119 airlifted the items to Travis AFB, Calif., for further shipment to India.

Chapel personnel involved in the worthy project included Chaplains Theodore Mitzner, Lucas W. Buttry and Robert Lynn, and Chief MSGT. C. F. Hamilton, SSgtt. E. J. Welch, SMSgt. William D. Parks, A2C

A HARASSED mother of five children was asked by a friend, "Well, what do you want your next one to be?"

"A grandchild!" she replied.
